It is the responsibility of the HOME player to arrange the match. The home player must contact the away player within 7 days of the draw being made available online (usually the Sunday following the previous rounds deadline). Should the away player fail to respond within another 7 days, the home player must immediately contact the Singles competition organiser who will then take action. Likewise, should the away player receive no contact from the home player within the first 7 days, the away player should contact the Singles organiser. Should a match not be played by the deadline, the Singles organiser will use any of the above evidence to determine which player, or both, should be eliminated from the competition.
